

Logo Use on Merchandise

For merchandise applications, the Sun and White logo variation on a Navy Blue background should be used as the primary option. When positioning the logo, the same clear-space rules previously defined for building signage should be applied to ensure a consistent and cohesive brand appearance across all touchpoints.

On merchandise items that provide enough space for more creative graphic applications – such as notebooks, bottles or other products with larger printable surfaces – the Neuwerk pattern may also be used. This pattern is derived from the graphic symbol of the logo.

The Neuwerk pattern may only be used in Blue Tint 01 on a Navy Blue background. The pattern should always appear bold and clearly visible, preferably covering a larger surface area. Small-scale, overly dense or purely decorative use of the pattern should be avoided.
